
ALEXANDRE SCOTT, University of Quebec in Montreal

A Stopping Time Rule for Mean-Variance Portfolios Without Bankruptcy

In this talk, we will evaluate the probability of reaching a discounted targeted wealth based on a stopping time rule introduced by Li and Zhou (2006) and applied to mean-variance strategies with bankruptcy prohibition. To this end, we will make use of results on first passage time of Gauss-Markov processes through time-varying boundaries.